

COLTS LOSE AGAIN, BUT PLAY GOOD GAME

Outbat Yankees, but Can't Hit at Right Time. Clauser's Generosity Largely Responsible for One-Sided Victory—Fans Have Chance to See Revelle Work.

Everything went much better at Broad Street Park yesterday afternoon, even though the locals did lose to the Yankees by the score of 19 to 3.

The weather man helped out considerably by furnishing some real baseball weather for nearly eight innings. Then he got peevish, or something else, and delivered a shower just as Sullivan had it all framed up to win. And he would have, too, for Dutch Revelle, our very own Dutch, who had been sent to the mound by the Gotham Duke, was able to barely leave them across with an abhorrent underhand jerk, quite as unlike the smiling one as could be imagined. The only thing which looked natural was the smile.

A Good Game.

It was a good game, an enjoyable game, and put the fans in a much better frame of mind than the little affair of last Saturday. Sullivan set the pace for the youngsters by getting two safe ones in just that many times up. In fact, everybody hit well, proof of which lies in the box score, which gives Richmond eleven safe ones to nine for the majors. Johnny Verbout slammed one right on top the turtle in deep center, scoring Lodge though Verbout had to die peacefully at the third station, when Klement grounded out from second to first.

Things were reversed a little, New York taking the field and the Colts going after Brockett, who first went to the center position. Klement hit an easy one to Gardner and was out. Baker went the same road, while McCabe bounded one to first, where Roach helped Brockett by giving him an assist.

For New York Jube hit one to Hall and was out. Litsch didn't reach first, and Cree hit a high one to Mattis.

Take Lead Early.

New York began the scoring in the second, when a double-sacker by Kauff, a stolen base, two errors by Clauser and a base on balls netted three runs. Richmond was unable to make the circuit until the third, when hits by Sullivan and Hall, a wild throw and a sacrifice fly from the bat of Klement yielded one lone score.

In the third the Yankees helped to a pair of rallies through a base on balls, a sacrifice hit, some more errors by Clauser and a two-base hit, the second of the game, by Kauff. In the fourth the Yankees scored again. Walsh hit safe, was sacrificed to second and scored when Jube retired on a fielder's choice.

Score Each Inning.

It was a continuous performance after that until the eighth. The fifth produced the next straight mark. Roach singled to center, and scored on the other, but it is safe to say that Clauser was kind to him, advanced a base when Jube was safe on Martin's error and both scored, on Litsch's drive to right field.

In the seventh and final round for the Yankees, Roach hit to left, went to third on Gardner's hit and scored on an error by Lodge. The eighth opened all right, but after Litsch flew out to McCabe, the kindly rain came and stopped further run-gathering.

EXPERT WOMAN CUIST AMAZES LARGE CROWD

Makes Shots on Green Covered Table Which Bring Applause From Audience—Women on Hand to Witness Exhibition, Which Will Be Repeated To-Night.

Bertha May King last night demonstrated to an audience composed of men and women which taxed the capacity of the Newport Casino that she is entitled to be known as the champion woman pool player of the world.

Time and again the plucky exponent of the theory that sex is no bar to accomplishment on the green cloth was cheered by the crowd after the execution of a difficult shot. She has a stroke of which any man might be proud, and she keeps her husband on the go every minute to hold up his end of the family.

Dressed in a handsome gown of some kind of red stuff which no mere man could describe, but which it is a pinch every woman there had dissected and registered in her mind long before the delicacy of the shots made were understood, she walked around that table with the eye of an expert and picked out combinations of every known variety, which she made with a precision which forced a suppressed

Some of the members wanted a change because they would not let them stay all night unless they themselves were present. The female issue was put to a vote. Nine men voted each way. TRINITY SHUT OUT BY AMHERST TEAM

Score Is 3 to 0, and Game Is Most Exciting of Season.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Durham, N. C., March 27.—The best played and most exciting contest of the season, Amherst defeated Trinity here this afternoon by the score of 3 to 0. For the visitors, pitched an excellent game, keeping his six hits so well scattered that no one was in the same inning, and striking out five. The home team pitched a superb game, allowing a hit until the seventh inning, and fanning five.

In the seventh the only scores of the game came. Rudy led off with a single, and was followed by Kane with another single. A base on balls filled the bases. Thompson hit out a slashing single, and Rudy and Kane scored, but Rudy played a superb game, judging the wind-carried balls with unerring accuracy. Rudy starred with the stick, getting a two-bagger and a single. For Amherst, Pennock played an excellent game at short, making an almost phenomenal catch in the ninth inning.

YELLOW JACKETS DEFEAT ACADEMY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Richmond, Va., March 27.—The rain held off just long enough this afternoon to allow Coach Warren's Yellow Jackets to trim the team from the Randolph-Macon Academy, at Front Royal, under Coach Smith, the star pitcher of the Jackets last year, by the score of 3 to 2. The game was a close one from start to finish, but the college secured a lead in the first inning, and played safe from then on, despite the vigorous efforts of the visitors.

The sensation of the game was the desperate rally of the youngsters in the eighth. In that inning Willis led off, and was hit. The next man up, Green, who threw Willis out at third on a close decision. The next batter, handed Beville one a little too hot for the second baseman, and two runs romped across the pan. The next man walked, and with a man on third and first, Coach Smith threw a bat in Garrett's place. He tried the squeeze play, but missed, and Bane caught the runner sliding in. The coach batted at another one, and the runner was again caught at the plate by Bane. Otherwise the Academy did not come near scoring throughout the entire game.

The Yellow Jackets made their tally in the first. Fisher, the second man up, hit to left. Bane got safe on an error by short, and both scored on Captain Beville's single. Warren's men showed up in perfect form so far as their fielding was concerned. All are fast and their throwing ability is remarkable. In the batting line they were rather unimpaired. Warren is working hard with them, and when the championship of East Virginia is called the Yellow Jackets expect to be on the job. They have won the past two cups.

The line-up:
